

Sacramento County Fair Offers Best Deal for Holiday Weekend

SACRAMENTO, CA. With free admission for kids and seniors, and just $5 general admission for ages 13-61, you would be hard-pressed to find a better entertainment value than the Sacramento County Fair. Even a visit to the movie theater costs more and it usually lasts less than two hours. Plus with the price of gasoline you can start your summer close to home on Memorial Day weekend and get more bang for your buck all the way around.

Consider that the price of admission includes live music by Bay Area favorites like Max Cabello, or a comedy stunt show by Matt Baker from the “America’s Got Talent” TV series, a wild animal adventure, a circus, an art and photography show, hands-on science exploration and much more inside the magical world of the County Fair. Where else can you spend all day, get hypnotized, watch a Sea Lion show, learn where your food comes from, talk to the farm animals, all for free once you pass through the gates?

Of course it wouldn’t be a Fair without carnival rides, but there’s a great deal there too. An unlimited ride wristband is just that – all the rides you want any one day. If you plan in advance you can save up to $15 on a ValuPass sold at area Walgreens which includes Fair admission and a wristband. If you wait till the last minute, you can take advantage of the Good Buddy BOGO (Buy One Get One Free) deal on Thursday, May 26.

For parents with little ones who like to visit the Fair early, they can download a coupon for free admission until 3:00 pm on Friday, May 27, through News 10’s Mom’s Like Me Club. There will be a complimentary privacy lounge for breast feeding and healthy snacks as well as a diaper changing area, open all days of the Fair.

For more information on the Sacramento County Fair, May 26-30, at Cal Expo, visit www.SacFair.com. For 75 years they have been creating “Memories & Magic” and your family can too.
